

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

-----X
PERRY STREET SOFTWARE, INC.,

Plaintiff,

20 CIVIL 4539 (CM)

-against-

JUDGMENT

JEDI TECHNOLOGIES, INC.

Defendant.

-----X

It is hereby ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED: That for the reasons set forth in the Court's Order and Decision dated July 13, 2021, the Court concludes that the '918 patent's independent claims are directed towards the abstract idea of automated matchmaking and are thus ineligible for patent protection under § 101. The claims also do not include any inventive concept that otherwise transforms the claims into ones that are patent eligible. Perry Street's motion for judgment on the pleadings is granted. The '918 patent is declared invalid, and Jedi's counterclaim for patent infringement is dismissed; accordingly, this case is closed.
